Golden Anniversary—Battle of Gettysburg

Great preparations are under way for the golden anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, to be held next July, and it is already stated that it will be the greatest reunion of war veterans ever held. The Pennsylvania commission in charge is actively engaged in preparing for the great "days of July" and is already taking steps to provide for the accommodation of the survivors of the conflict. Every effort will be made to avoid a congestion in the town.

The arrangements as already made are announced by Colonel Lewis E. Beitler, secretary of the Pennsylvania Gettysburg Commission, in part, as follows:

Host: Pennsylvania—she providing all entertainment at Gettysburg during July 1, 2, 3 and 4, 1913, for forty thousand (40,000) "honorably discharged veterans of the Civil War," and she and the National Government together, as provided by the Act of Congress of August 26, 1912, by each paying $150,000.00 for the War Department with the $300,000.00 total, to create and maintain a great camp around the battlefield, complete in all its provisions of camp and garrison equipment, with all Quartermaster, Commissary, Hospital and other necessary supplies ample for such forty thousand (40,000) veterans.

Camp Accommodations: The camp comprises some two hundred and eighty (280) contiguous acres, starting about two hundred (200) yards from the High Water Mark Monument on the battlefield, and lying to the southwest of the town and partly upon the scene of the first day's fight, consists of 5,000 tents, regularly holding twelve (12) men each, but now to hold but eight (8) veterans, each veteran being supplied with a separate cot, blanket and mess kit, (the latter to become his property), each tent to contain also two (2) hand basins, one (1) water bucket and two (2) lanterns for candles, and candles for each. Towels, soap and other toilet articles must be provided by the veteran himself. Meals to be served him at tables adjoining the kitchen at the end of each company street. His baggage must not include any trunk, but must be restricted to hand baggage only, the handling and care of which rests with him. To aid in prompt delivery, all mail matter and telegrams must not only be plainly addressed to the individual veteran, but also must in addition state "Veteran with Maine Delegation" or "Mississippi Delegation," or whatever State delegation it may be. The Pennsylvania Commission having charge of the order of exercises during the celebration; the physical control of the camp and grounds and the movements of troops and marching bodies therein to be in charge of the Secretary of War, under such officers as he may detail for that purpose.

Assignment to Camp Accommodations: Immediately upon a Etate, through its Representative to our commission, advising us definitely how many veterans will be present from that State as our guests, the Pennsylvania Commission will assign to that State a section of the camp with sufficient tents, all sub-divisions of these tents such section to be made only by that State's Representative to our commission, Pennsylvania making no assignments save to an entire State.

When Camp Will be Opened and Closed: To avoid as far as possible congesting the railroads at Gettysburg in bringing and taking away our guests, the camp will be opened, in complete readiness for the reception of veterans on Sunday, June 29, 1913, the first meal to be served being supper that evening, and will continue open until the following Sunday, July 6, 1913, the last meal to be served being breakfast that morning, no one, under any circumstances whatsoever, being allowed in the camp before nor after these dates.

Entire Camp and All Arrangements for Veterans ONLY: Under the Acts of Assembly of Pennsylvania and of the Congress of the United States, only veterans of the Civil War may be provided food, shelter and entertainment within the great camp around the battlefield; therefore, no woman ,nor child, nor any man not such veteran, will be given such food, shelter or entertainment therein, and no veteran accompanied at Gettysburg by a woman or child, or man not such veteran, will be given any such food, shelter or entertainment therein for himself and them also, but only for himself alone, the above laws so prohibiting, and therefore no sleeping, toilet, or other arrangements that would make it possible for women or children to sleep or be fed in the camp have or will be made. Further, no veteran should bring to Gettysburg any member of his family or other person for whom he will so have to obtain food and quarters outside the camp, unless all arrangements therefore have first been made and secured by him for them before he or they come to Gettysburg.

Necessary Credentials: To this end that this Great Reunion may be enjoyed to the full by only those for whom Pennsylvania and likewise the National Government and her Sister Commonwealth, States and Territories have intended and planned it, i. e., the known veteran of the Civil War, and only by him, Pennsylvania and the National Government, by the officers there detailed for the purpose, and before any entrance to or accommodations in the great camp will be allowed or given, will exact an authentic credential from each and every individual veteran showing him such to be, which must either be his honorable discharge, his pension certificate or a certificate of service from either the Governor of his State in which he enlisted (or from the officer the Governor designates) or, if he was a regular, from the U. S. War Department, or, if he was a sailor or member of the Marine Corps, from the U. S. Navy Department, or a certificate of identification from a commander of a Post of the Grand Army of the Republic, or from a commander of a camp of the United Confederate Veterans.

Free Transportation to and from Gettysburg: With each Commonwealth, State and Territory rests absolutely the determination, as each deems best, to what veterans of the Civil War it will issue free transportation, Pennsylvania's invitation being that to such "honorably discharged veterans of the Civil War" as come to Gettysburg for the above celebration, either upon free transportation or at their own expense, and present proper credentials proving them to be such veterans, she will provide food, shelter and entertainment during that period, but she furnishes free transportation to no one, save only to her own veterans or veterans now resident within her borders, and to them only under legislative direction, which is now pending in her General Assembly, the National Government furnishing no free transportation at all.

Railroad Rates, etc.: The Trunk Line Passenger Association in whose territory Gettysburg is, has granted a one and three-fifths round trip excursion rate, good going June 25th and returning to original starting point by July 15th, a 20-day ticket, good only on same route going and coming and costing 2c per mile, but each State must make its own arrangements with the similar associations covering the territory from that State to Pennsylvania. The railroads at Gettysburg refuse, because of lack of room, to park or accommodate there any cars on side tracks.

Programme of Exercises: The programme for the four days' exercises and entertainment is not yet perfected in detail, but the tentative suggestions are:

July 1st—Veterans' Day:

Appropriate exercises under the joint direction of the Pennsylvania Commission, and the Comanders-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans.

July 2d—Military Day:

Under the direction of the Chief of Staff of the United States Army. Special detachments of each arm of the Regular Service to participate as directed.

July 3rd—Civic Day:

Under the direction of the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, presiding, and participated in by the Governors of the several States. Orations, sermon and music.

July 4th—National Day:

The Chief Justice of the United States presiding. Forenoon, oration by the President of the United States. High noon, he to lay the corner-stone of a great Peace Memorial. Evening, fireworks.

Reunions: A great tent, seating between ten thousand (10,000) and fifteen thousand (15,000) veterans, will be erected immediately adjoining the camp, and therein will occur the above exercises, excepting the military parade and fireworks, and therein, save for the hours set apart for the above exercises, the veterans may hold all reunions they may desire, the tent being arranged to be sub-divided into numerous separate enclosures. All such organization desiring to therein hold such reunions must address, before June 1st, "Lieutenant Colonel Lewis E. Beitler, Secretary, Pennsylvania Gettysburg Commission, Room No. 509 Capitol, Harrisburg, Pa.," stating explicitly the name of the organization or association, the day, date and hour reservation is desired, and, just as accurately as possible, the number of veterans who will participate therein. All such reunions therein will be allowed only after due and formal application is so made, and official reservation is granted by letter to the proper officer of such organization, after which official notices of the day, date and hour of the reunion of the various organizations so granted will be posted on

CAPTAIN DAVID B. SIMPSON,
Commissary First Infantry.

Captain David B. Simpson, recently appointed Captain and Commissary of the First Infantry, is a merited selection by Colonel Eidell. Captain Simpson has long been identified with the Guard, and both in the field and with his vigorous pen, has been zealous for the advancement of the service. Captain Simpson's original entry into the Guard was in Company I, Third Infantry, where his ability was quickly recognized. He went through the several grades of non-commissioned officers, and was later unanimously elected as First Lieutenant of Company I. He was subsequently identified with Company D, of the same regiment, and later associated himself with the First Infantry.

the official bulletin boards throughout the camp. All veterans of the Civil War, North and South, are urged to wear their Army, Corps, Division, Brigade and Society Badges, as a means of identification to their comrades in like commands, in the expectation that it will assist in imparting information as to when and where their different organizations meet, and in bringing together comrades who would otherwise, by reason of lapse of time, fail to recognize each other.

Representatives to the Pennsylvania Commission: Appointed by the respective Governors of the several Commonwealths, States and Territories, to arrange ALL matters pertaining to the participation of their veterans, and therefore the veteran in these respective States is respectfully referred for any and all information concerning HIS State's arrangements to the following Representatives:

FIFTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY PARADE FIRST REGIMENT INFANTRY, APRIL 19TH, 1913. COLONEL WILLIAM F EIDELL, HEAD OF COLUMN AT THE MASONIC TEMPLE.

HISTORY OF THE NAVAL MILITIA.

The Naval Militia movement has grown out of an effort to create a force of men and ships to be available for reinforcing the Regular Navy on demand. In 1887 Mr. Whitthorne introduced Senate bill 3320, "To create a naval reserve of auxiliary cruisers, officers, and men from the mercantile marine of the United States." The measure did not become a law. The Navy Department, in 1887, prepared a plan of organization for a naval militia.

Mr. Whitthorne introduced H. R. 1847, on January 4, 1888, and then substituted H. R. 10622 on June 26, 1888, "To provide for the enrollment of a naval militia and the organization of naval forces, etc." This bill was not passed, but it was the basis of State action in several States.

On October 1, 1891, California, Massachusetts, New York, North Carolina, Rhode Island and Texas reported an enrolled naval militia of 1,149 officers and men. These forces were parts of the National Guard or volunteer militia of their respective States. In 1892 Texas had dropped out and South Carolina had come in. The total enrolled naval militia was 1,794. The organizations of four States were drilled on seagoing men-of-war in the navy.

Pennsylvania was the eighth State to organize such a force. In 1892 a Naval Reserve Association was formed and consisted of a number of prominent Philadelphians who were interested in yachting and maritime affairs, among whom were Theodore M. Etting, Dallas Saunders, Clark Merchant, Louis C. Madeira, Jr., Clement A. Griscom, and Tatnall Paulding. On October 26, 1892, the First Battalion, Naval Reserves Artillery, was organized as an independent military force, and Robert K. Wright, a graduate of Annapolis, was elected to command. The sub-divisions were termed Battery A and Battery B, and were commanded by George C. Stout and George Breed, respectively, each of these gentlemen also having graduated from Annapolis. Among the junior officers were Lloyd C. Griscom, Henry Hudson Smith, Burnett Landreth, John Marie, Louis Marie, and Frederick W. Morris, Jr.

On January 6, 1893, Battery A was mustered into the service of the State as Division A, Naval Force of Pennsylvania, and in June of that year Division B was mustered in. The two divisions became the First Battalion on the following month, and Robert K. Wright was elected to the command with the rank of Commander, which corresponds to the grade of Lieutenant Colonel in the National Guard.

Soon after this Division C was organized in Pittsburgh, and was assigned to the Second Brigade, while Divisions A and B were made a part of the First Brigade. Division C later became Division A, Second Battalion, on account of this separation. Some years later all three divisions were assigned to Division Headquarters as the First Battalion, which was a far better arrangement for all concerned. The strength of the Naval Force of Pennsylvania from 1893 to 1898 was as follows: In 1893, 150; in 1894, 217; in 1895, 167; in 1896, 132; in 1897, 183; in 1898, 271.

At the outbreak of the war with Spain the Naval Force volunteered its services, but only the two Philadelphia divisions were mustered into the navy, as the Government stopped further enlistment just before Division C, of Pittsburgh, was to be presented for examination. This reduced the total examined by four commissioned officers and eighty-four petty officers and men. Twenty-one men were assigned to the coast signal service; the remainder, together with six officers, manned the U. S. S. Arctic, and patrolled the Delaware bay and its vicinity. The other officers served as follows:

One officer commanded auxiliary and naval force, Fourth District.

One officer commanded the U. S. S. St. Louis.
One officer commanded the U. S. S. Aileen.
One officer commanded the U. S. S. Minneapolis.
One officer commanded the U. S. S. Viking.
Two officers to the U. S. S. Huntress.
One officer to the U. S. S. Sylph.

Of a total force of 24,123 enlisted men in the navy during this war, 4,216 were mustered in from the naval militia organization of the several States. Thus, over 17 per cent. of the navy was composed of naval militiamen.

In 1900, Division C, in Pittsburgh, was disbanded. Its members, not having been permitted to enter the naval service, for which they had been especially trained, sought to serve in other organizations and the interest that had been taken in the Pittsburgh naval militia by its former members was not very successfully revived after the war. In consequence there remained Divisions A and B in Philadelphia. As practice ships they had the U. S. S. Shearwater and the U. S. S. St. Louis, the latter having been in use as such since 1894, while the former had been obtained for cruising purposes in 1899. Later, in 1904, the name of the U. S. S. St. Louis was changed to the U. S. S. Keystone State. In 1907, the U. S. S. Sylvia, a converted yacht of Spanish war service, was assigned to the Naval Force for practice purposes.

In 1911 Divisions C and D, First Battalion, were mustered into service at Erie, Pa., on the Great Lakes, and to them was assigned the U. S. S. Wolverine. The battalion now numbers 16 commissioned officers and 219 petty officers and men. Each division is allowed 84 men and as a maximum and 42 men as a minimum, and an engineer corps is also allowed, to consist of any number from 12 to 20 men, with a Senior Lieutenant and an Ensign to command. As yet this corps is not formed. The engineer force is assigned to the deck divisions for enrollment.

The future activities of the battalion for the present year will consist of week-end cruises on the Delaware Bay and on Lake Erie, the former to be made on the U. S. S. Worden, a torpedo boat destroyer to be assigned for practice purposes to the Philadelphia divisions, and also on the U. S. S. Sylvia, whose repairs at League Island are now being completed, and the latter to be made on the U. S. S. Wolverine. The regular annual cruise will be held on the Worden and the Wolverine. This corresponds to the annual National Guard encampment. In addition to the cruising, there will be the usual boat work under steam and oars, and Division A has planned an occasional practice march.

During the months of July and August the U. S. S. Wolverine, manned by the naval militia, will tow Perry's brig Niagara from port to port on Lake Erie, where the Niagara will be the centre of attraction in the Perry Centennial Celebration. In the early fall the Naval Force will participate in the war manoeuvers to be held by the Atlantic fleet, followed by the fleet review in New York harbor. It is the intention of the Navy Department that the State naval militias shall be present with the navy at the Panama Exposition in 1915. They will be assigned to duty on their own vessels or on battleships of the reserve fleets, and it is consequently most probable that the Naval Force of Pennsylvania will pass through the Panama Canal and will witness many of the interesting incidents in connection with this historic celebration.

STATE FENCIBLES, MAY 24TH.

Philadelphians will be given a rare treat in the big parade to mark the celebration of the centennial of the State Fencibles in that city on May 23rd. For the first time since the Centennial Exhibition of 1876, the citizens will have an opportunity to witness a procession of the historic military organizations of the United States, appearing in the colorful uniforms, which was characteristic of the service in the earlier days of the last century and providing each unit with a distinct dress. Among some of the more famous organizations which will visit Philadelphia at this time are the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, which will be quartered at the Bellevue-Stratford; the New Haven Grays, of New Haven, with 125 men quartered at the Hotel Walton; the First and Second Company, Governor's Foot Guard, of Connecticut; the Worcester Continentals, from Worcester, Mass.; the Old Guard of the City of New York; Richmond Light Infantry Blues, from Richmond, Va.; the Gate City Guard, from Atlanta, Ga.; the Norfolk Light Infantry Blues, from Norfolk, Va.; the Providence Light Infantry, from Providence, R. I.; the Montgomery Grays, from Montgomery, Ala.; the Fayette Light Infantry, from Fayetteville, N. C., and the Putnam Phalanx, from Hartford, Conn. Brigadier General William G. Price, Jr., is to be the Chief Marshal of the parade. As a special feature of the celebration, the National Guard escort from this city will consist of a provisional war strength regiment detailed from the First, Second and Third Regiments. This provisional regiment will give the people of the city an actual insight, for the first time, into the appearance of the men equipped for war under modern conditions. Each company will be accompanied by its army wagon. Attached to the regiment will be a platoon of artillery equipped with the latest models of rapid-fire pieces. The regiment will consist of twelve companies of 150 men each. The parade promises to be one of the most interesting ever held in Philadelphia. In addition to this spectacular feature, the celebration will also consist of a series of exercises. Special ceremonies will be held in Independence Hall and addresses delivered by prominent men.

RIFLE PRACTICE.

One Way of Increasing the Efficiency of the Members of the National Guard of Pennsylvania in 1913.

(By H. F. Egle, First Sergeant Company G, Eighteenth Infantry)

How to increase the interest and efficiency of the members National Guard in rifle practice has been alike the problem of Inspector-General, as well as every Inspector of Small Arms P. of this and other States.

As a suggestion of a possible solving of this important pr this paper is submitted by one of the enlisted men of the Guard.

It is an acknowledged fact that the battles of the future, like wars of the past, will be fought and won by "the men behind the guns."

To be successful in this, the most important training of a soldier, the National Guard of Pennsylvania now forming a part of the Regular Army of the United States, needs a maximum of experts, sharpshooters and marksmen in its membership. How to accomplish this is the question.

At present the members of the National Guard receive NO PAY whatsoever, either for the time spent by them in gaining a military training one evening during each week in the study of close order movements, field duties, etc., or the time required from their regular occupation in daytime during the rifle practice season in the summer months in order to qualify as experts, sharpshooters, marksmen, etc. It is true that decorations of various kinds are issued to those qualifying with the rifle during the past season; owing to the fact, however, that these decorations are not received by those entitled to them until nearly the close of the following year's rifle practice season their value to serve is greatly reduced. Were it possible to issue these medals, etc., during the month of February, three months after the close of the rifle practice season, and before the spring inspection and the opening of the following year's rifle practice season, the wearing of same by those entitled to them, would without doubt be a stimulant to the new members of the various organizations of the Guard, as well as to those of the old members who for one re or another did not qualify in a decorative class during the season closed.

The regular establishment of the U. S. Army has long since recognized the value of its experts, etc., by giving each one entitled to it, in addition to the decorations, an increased monthly pay of: $5 to each expert, $3 to each sharpshooter, and $2 to each marksman, who qualified as such during the past season. Thus an expert during 1911 would receive $60 as increased pay, a sharpshooter $36, and a marksman $24. These amounts are paid to those entitled to them for each year, so long as they qualify in these classes.

The National Guard of Pennsylvania could well afford to follow this system, by paying each expert a bonus of $10. each sharpshooter $6, and each marksman $5 annually, so long as each one qualifies in either one of these three classes. This bonus should be paid each one earning same for qualifying during the past rifle practice season as additional camp pay in the year following such qualification. The results from this would be felt in more ways than one. First it would result in a material gain in the number of experts, sharpshooters and marksmen. Second, it would be the cause of increased attendance at camp; an expert not attending camp would lose his bonus. And should the order issued from headquarters along these lines, include that each member entitled to a bonus for rifle practice work during the past year, must also qualify with the rifle before going to camp in order to draw such bonus as additional camp pay for the current year, it would mean that the majority of the members of the Guard would qualify previous to going to camp, thereby gaining considerable time after camp for improving their record. It would also be the means of encouraging new members to qualify in a class as high as possible, and result in a saving of ammunition through inexperience and indifference.

As the personnel of the National Guard is largely composed of wage earners, who lose a part of their daily pay, whenever they go to the rifle range to practice and qualify, it will readily be seen that the paying of a bonus will recompense these men in a measure for the time so lost, and will be the cause of added interest in their work as members of the National Guard. It will also without doubt be the cause of a greater number of re-enlistments, which in brief will mean a considerable saving to the State.

If the members of the Regular Army are entitled to extra pay on qualifying as experts, etc., there can be little question as to the justice and wisdom in adopting such a course for the National Guard. The members of the regular service are on duty year in and year out; they are taken to the various rifle ranges of the government for periods of thirty to ninety days annually, to allow them to practice and qualify, and they receive their pay for such practice and qualification. Yet, the National Government sees fit to offer a bonus or increased pay to all who qualify as experts, sharpshooters or marksmen.

How much more then should the State offer such a bonus to its members of the National Guard, who now receive no pay whatsoever for their service in perfecting themselves, and "in times of peace prepare for war," so as to be ready whenever the State should require it.

Respectfully submitted,

HENRY F. EGLE,
Company G, Eighteenth Infantry, N. G. P.

THE LATEST BULLETIN OF MILITIA NOTES.

Issued by the Division of Militia Affairs, War Department, contains the following information concerning the requirements for Rifle Camps of Instruction:

(a) The circulars provide that to authorize the payment from Federal funds of the officers and enlisted men of an organization a prescribed personnel must have had target practice; for example, in a company of infantry two officers and twenty enlisted men. It is not meant by this that the personnel is required to fire or to be present in camp on each and every day of the period of encampment. The requirements of the circulars will have been complied with if during the period allotted in orders from State authorities for target practice the required minimum number of officers and men have fired. Whether this firing takes place on the same or different days is immaterial.

(b) It is further provided that transportation and subsistence, but not pay, may be furnished to a detachment consisting of not less than one officer and ten enlisted men (not necessarily belonging to the same organization). This number must be present and firing, before a rifle camp of instruction can be constituted. When less than this minimum number of one officer and ten enlisted men are present and firing there is no rifle camp of instruction, and no authority for paying the executive personnel.

(c) Officers and men may be paid for the number of days on which they actually participate in target practice, at such rifle camps of instruction, but such payment is a matter of policy for the State to determine.

(d) Transportation to and from any rifle camp of instruction will be authorized for the same person but once during the period of target practice.

(e) The executive personnel mentioned in Circular No. 2, is suggestive only, and expresses the opinion of this Division as to what constitutes a proper personnel for the larger rifle camps of instruction. For the smaller ranges and commands the number of this personnel should be reduced accordingly, and in every case be limited to the absolute necessities consistent with efficient service.

(f) Orders prescribing target practice for a State should designate all ranges on which such practice is held as "Rifle Camps of Instruction," if it is desired that pay, transportation, and subsistence be provided from Federal allotments.

(g) Civilians employed to turn or mark targets during target practice or in any similar capacity should be designated as "pitmen."

(h) Since all rifle camps are considered as camps of instruction, the Secretary of War has decided that all pay and transportation of officers and men, and subsistence of the men participating, must be paid from the allotment "Arms, Equipments and Camp Purposes," and must not be charged against the allotment for "The Promotion of Rifle Practice."

The following is the approved policy of the Division of Militia Affairs in regard to the status of officers and non-commissioned officers of the Regular Army on duty with the Organized Militia:

(a) In considering the relations which exist between the United States and the States in connection with the instruction of the Organized Militia of the latter, it is evident that in each State there are peculiar conditions which will influence its policy in regard to the system of military instruction therein put in force. The Federal Government recognizes this condition, and the necessity that each State finally determine its own general system, with the proviso, however, that in order to obtain the assistance of the Government, this system must be such as to afford proper instruction for its officers and men, a correct organization, and such a condition in regard to arms, clothing, and equipment as will enable its Organized Militia to take the field as an efficient war unit.

(b) In addition to the allotments made by the Federal Government for this purpose, there are assigned to the States certain officers and enlisted men as instructors, whose services are at the disposal of the military authorities of the State, to assist in the accomplishment of the ends desired by the Government.

It should, however, be remembered that these officers and non-commissioned officers are under the orders of the War Department, and have certain definite instructions which they must carry out. They are not under the orders of the State authorities, but are in the State as instructors for the Federal Government, and in an advisory capacity to the military authorities of the State; so, while the War Department concedes to a State the right to provide for its system of military instruction, as above mentioned, it must be recognized on the part of the State that the officers detailed to assist in carrying out this system should be allowed to do so in accordance with their instructions and in the manner they deem best adapted to accomplish the end.

(c) In order to secure the greatest benefit from their services, they should be consulted freely by the authorities; and as it may be taken for granted that they are educated soldiers, it is believed that their advice on matters of instruction and on the system for imparting such instruction should be followed. This last, however, is for the State authorities to decide; the instructors in this respect having advisory power only.

(d) The system desired having been fully explained to the inspector-instructors, and to the sergeant-instructors, they are expected to carry out the general idea, and afford all assistance possible to make it a success, but as before stated, they must not in any way be hampered or restricted in the performance of their duties.

(e) If it is felt that they are not working in harmony with the State authorities, or they are not making a success in their work of instruction, it is always within the power of the Governor to request the relief of such as are deemed by him unsuited for their duties, and this request will be promptly complied with.

(f) On the part of the Federal Government, if it is felt that the system of instruction put in force is not such as to accomplish the end desired, i. e., to fit the Organized Militia for the field, and if it should appear that the advice of these specially qualified officers is in general disregarded, or their services not utilized, they, and the non-commissioned officers would then be relieved from duty with the State.

The Ordnance Department is prepared to furnish to States having field artillery a miniature target equipment for sub-calibre practice. The equipment consists of the following:

10 targets representing guns horsed;
10 targets representing gun carriages shielded;
10 targets representing caissons horsed;
12 targets representing machine guns;
50 standing figures;
50 kneeling figures;
50 prone figures;

Sufficient small wooden sticks for use in supporting the targets and target figures;

Sufficient small wire nails for fastening the targets and figures to the wooden sticks;

4 miniature sleds of appropriate size for carrying the targets representing the guns horsed and the caissons horsed;

600 feet of sash cord or rope of suitable size for hauling the miniature targets.

The equipment may be obtained upon requisition, as a charge either against Section 1661, Revised Statutes, or under Section 13 of the Militia Law, at a cost of about $11.00.

EDITORIAL.

It is well worth while to call attention to the celebration at Washington on May 6th of the sixteenth anniversary of Professor Samuel Pierrpont Langley's first demonstration of the possibility of mechanical flight. Dr. Langley's first flying machine made its initial trip over the Potomac river in May, 1896. It carried no passengers and the first flights were of less than half a mile, but it showed the world the scientific possibilities of aviation. Dr. Langley died a heart-broken and, to the lay mind, a discredited man, because his first passenger-carrying machine was improperly launched and dove into the Potomac instead of taking flight.

Announcement is made of the marriage, on April 16, at Pittsburgh, of Miss Hilda Luther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Phillip Luther, to former Lieutenant James Albert Rutledge, son of Colonel Frank I. Rutledge.

General Clement made an advanced step in securing a camp site at Selinsgrove for the annual manoeuvers of the Third and Fourth Brigades. The location is ideal and splendidly fitted for a tour of duty. It has a special advantage in its immediate proximity to the Susquehanna river and army officers who have visited the site declare that it is one of the best in the country for its purposes. The railroad facilities are superb. In the next issue of the Journal a detailed account of the site and its surroundings will be given and will be accompanied by unusually beautiful illustrations.

An interesting case recently occurred in one of the towns of the State, in which a military company chose a prominent civilian as its captain. The man elected, however, was satisfied to rest upon the honor, and made no effort to take the examination, file a bond, or meet any of the military requirements. The case was reported to the Adjutant General's Department, and then brought to the attention of the Commander-in-Chief, who promptly decided that the man was not entitled to a commission, and that none should be issued.

The Journal is pleased to note the promotion of Captain George F. Buss, of the Ninth Infantry, as Aide-de-Camp upon the Division Staff. The appointment reflects great credit upon Major General C. B. Dougherty. Captain Buss has been identified with the National Guard for more than a quarter of a century. He is a veteran who has been tested time and again and has never been found wanting. Thoroughly familiar with the details of all of the departments, he combines a rare knowledge of affairs with an unusual adaptability for executive administration. Captain Buss is one of the leading business men of Pittston, and is the treasurer of Luzerne county. He is a man of great popularity both in his home section and throughout the State and the promotion is one which has created much favorable comment.

NOTES

It is stated that Companies D and I, Eighth Infantry, known as the City Greys, and the Governor's Troop, all of Harrisburg, will have a handsome new armory constructed for their use within the next three years. According to report, the building will be erected upon the extension of the Capitol grounds, and the money to be obtained through the sale of the present armory, which is controlled by the City Greys' corporation, will be utilized as a trust fund for the two active infantry companies.

The citizens of Indiana are greatly disappointed over the announcement that the Second Brigade encampment will not be held in that city this year. While Indiana has demonstrated unusual availability as a camp site, yet it was decided to hold the annual manoeuvers at Erie, owing to the Perry celebration, this year. Efforts are already under way to secure the encampment for Indiana two years hence.

The First Squadron of Cavalry, under command of Major J. P. Wood, will go upon an eight days' practice march and manoeuver, this summer, instead of going to camp. This is the first time in the history of the Guard that the squadron is acting independently under its own commander. It is generally believed that the march will include a visit to Gettysburg during the veterans' encampment.

Company F, Ninth Regiment, has made rapid strides during the past two years, and now stands well up in the infantry arm of the State. Captain Raeder is to be well congratulated upon the increased efficiency of his men, and particularly upon the splendid showing which his company made recently at the competitive inspections conducted by Lieutenant Colonel Ezra H. Ripple, Jr., of the Thirteenth Infantry.

Officers of the Thirteenth Infantry have under discussion plans for the organization of a military unit of that command at Carbondale. The town is regarded as a splendid field for recruiting, and it is believed that a company would meet with public support. The earlier plans for organizing a company at Stroudsburg have been abandoned by Colonel Stillwell.

Officers of the Thirteenth Infantry and of Company A, Engineer Corps, have organized the Scranton Military Athletic Association and plan to hold a number of interesting events during the next few months.

Company I, Thirteenth Regiment, will celebrate its fifteenth anniversary with a well-attended banquet at their armory, on Northampton street, Easton, on Friday evening, May 23. Distinguished guests from all sections of the State are expected to be present. The company has at all times been renowned for its splendid personnel, and upon several occasions has stood at the head of the Division for general efficiency. Captain Frank M. Godley is known as one of the best commanders in the Guard, and his untiring efforts, rare knowledge of human nature, and personal integrity have been tremendous factors in the maintenance of the company's unusual record. The company was organized in 1808 by Colonel B. Rush Field. Captain Robert Horn, Major Fred R. Drake, Captain Maurice Clemens, and Captain Charles C. Johnson, who were also in command of the company, will be guests at the dinner.

The Journal desires to correct a few false impressions with regard to the editorial in the March issue upon General Hulings' services in the National Guard. In respect to the Hospital Corps, the old members of the Guard will recollect that formerly the Hospital Corps consisted of one man detailed from each company, who at the encampments reported to the Regimental Surgeon. Company commanders were in continual "hot water" concerning the uniforms and equipments of these men who were enlisted in their companies. Upon General Hulings' suggestions these non-combatants were given separate organization and support in each regiment, resulting in the present efficient Medical Corps Service in the N. G. P. So in the same way regimental bands which were not provided for by law but which were practically required of each regimental commandant, were made a recognized part of each regiment with special appropriations for their support. The statement was also made that "General Hulings is known to doubt whether it would not be better for the State to pay her troops than to secure Federal pay through an act of Congress." This is an inexact statement; General Hulings has always thought that somebody, and preferably the Federal Government, ought to pay for the attendance of troops at drill, for the very good reason that if ever troops should be needed these would be the very men on whom the government would call, and, of course, being at the call of the government and being practically the only trained troops outside of the regular army which we have that would be available for service, the government ought to bear the whole expense of training them. This correction is made because the printer, by a transposition of the text and improper warrant, made statements in the March issue which vary from the fact.

Colonel Benjamin Wolf, junior member, Staff Commander-in-Chief, was the guest of honor at a complimentary dinner tendered him at the St. James Hotel, Philadelphia, on Friday evening, April 25, by Colonel Walter T. Bradley. All of the Philadelphia members of the Governor's staff, and also Colonels Sweeney and Haldeman, were present, and an enjoyable evening was spent.

Members of the Eighth Infantry companies, contiguous to Gettysburg, rather anticipate being assigned to some duties during the veterans' encampment in celebration of the golden anniversary of the famous battle in July. It is expected that the city will be crowded with visitors from all parts of the country during the celebration, and that the Guardsmen will be called upon to assist the veterans.

Colonel Henry T. Dechert will tender a dinner to the officers who served with him in the Second Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry in celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the muster in of the command for the Spanish-American War at the University Club, on Tuesday evening, May 13. Company K, of the Second Infantry, which is probably the only company in Philadelphia, maintaining a veteran association, of men who served in Company K, Second Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, will hold its annual anniversary dinner on the same evening at one of the prominent hotels of the city.

General Albert J. Logan, always on the alert to advance the interests of the Second Brigade and the service generally, will take his command and the Fourteenth Infantry along with the several auxiliary organizations to Erie, two days ahead of the scheduled time, for attending the annual manoeuvers. In this connection, General Logan has induced Adjutant General Stewart to allow two days extra rations for the tour of duty, a move which is most popular with the officers and men.

Colonel William S. McKee, of the Fourteenth Infantry, is hopeful of taking a full quota to the manoeuvers at Erie in July. Three new units are practically organized in communities adjacent to Pittsburgh and are now awaiting muster into the State service.

Major William P. Clarke, Inspector's Department, is being heartily congratulated upon the action of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission in awarding a bronze medal and $2,000 to his son, Sheldon V. Clarke, for educational purposes, for bravery in saving J. Bryson Duke, from drowning at Williamsport. Young Clarke is 17 years old and a junior at the Williamsport High School. Duke is also 17 years old. The rescue took place June 3, 1912. A party of boys, not all of them together, had been swimming in the river off the first pier from the south end of the Market street bridge, a favorite swimming place during the summer time. Clarke had finished his swim and left the water. While climbing up the pier to get out of his trunks and into his clothing his attention was attracted by the shouts and struggles of one of the boys in the water. There was a three foot flood in the river and a strong current at that point, but without a moment's hesitation he swam to the drowning boy, who had by that time been carried by the current some little distance down the river. Realizing the danger of letting a drowning boy get hold of him he managed to support him and at the same time fight off his hands, several times finding it necessary to push the struggling form away from him and tackle it again. He had kept the boy's head above water for more than five minutes, every second of it a struggle against the death grip the boy was endeavoring to get, and trying to get him toward the shore when Common Councilman Jacob J. Moltz heard the cries and went to his aid in a boat. Both boys were completely exhausted and but for the timely appearance of Mr. Moltz both would have been drowned.

The Journal announces with regret the retirement of Captain John O'Connor from Company F, Sixteenth Infantry, of Franklin. Captain O'Connor has resigned on the ground that he cannot give the time necessary under the new regulations. He has been at the head of his company for the past three years, and his administration was a most successful one. Company F has lost an excellent captain and the Guard a splendid officer.

The problem of the shoe has not yet been entirely solved. The present shoe is well shaped and well made, but in practice is found to possess a serious defect, in the presence of a rigid metal shank, introduced between layers of the sole and supporting the arch of the foot. In the annual physical examination of the Corps of Cadets made recently, 46 cases of flat feet of varying degree were found. This means that one in every nine of the cadets has this defect; and since in 21 of these cases the notation is not made on their entrance papers, it is assumed that the condition has developed here. Any shoe will limit the normal action of the foot and will cause atrophy of certain muscles, and it is evident that a rigid support for the arch may in time, by taking the place of normal muscular action, so weaken the disused mechanism as to create the conditions responsible for flat foot. It is therefore recommended that the steel plate be omitted from future issues of the cadet shoe.

As indicating the prevalence of appendicitis among young men in this country it is of interest to record that there are 31 members of the Corps of Cadets who have been operated upon for this condition.

Efforts were made to induce cadets to volunteer for anti-typhoid inoculation; 102 responded, and each received three doses at intervals of 14 days.

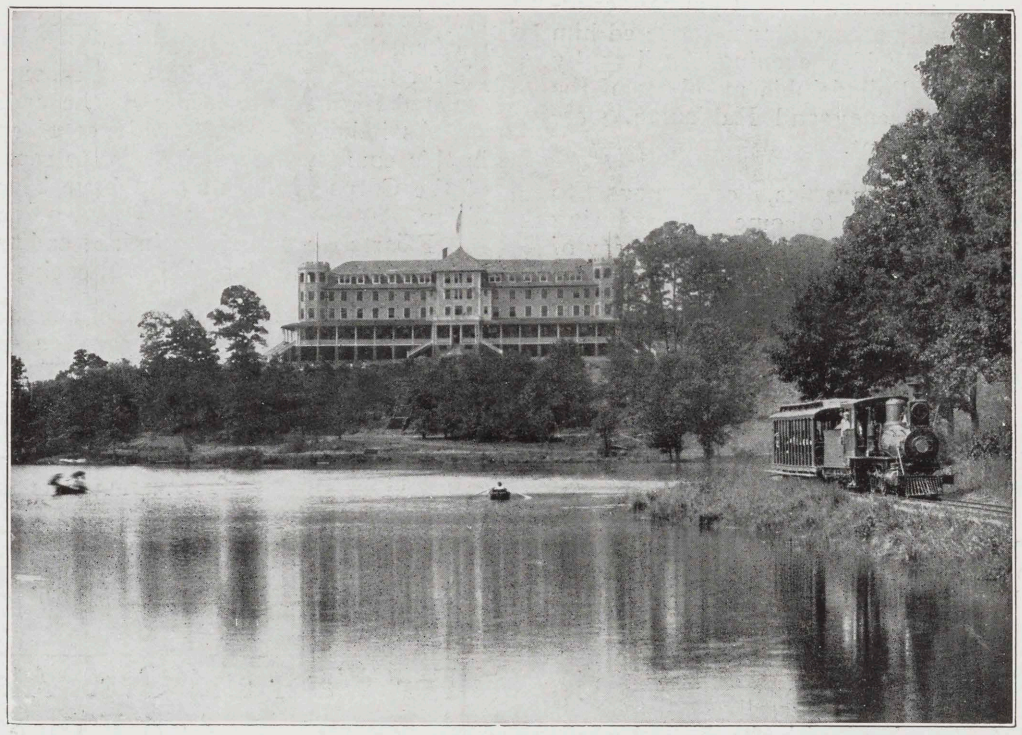
Mount Gretna, Pa.



The popularity of this delightful mountain resort is increasing every year. The population for the season in the more than 450 cottages and the several hotels and inns now number 3,500.

The fame of Mt. Gretna has spread beyond the borders of the State, both as a health resort and as a meeting place for the various assemblies and conferences annually held there.

The sessions of the Pennsylvania Chautauqua, the United Brethren Summer Assembly and others draw many thousands of people to Mt. Gretna.

Various military encampments have been held there during the past twenty-five years, notably the great United States Joint Manoeuver Camp in 1906, under command of General Fred Grant. The mobilization of the State troops for the Spanish War of 1898 also added to the fame of Mt. Gretna.

The high-class modern Hotel Conewago, erected three years ago, has also added greatly to the popularity of the place, as this hotel is most delightfully situated on a bluff overlooking the lake and adjacent military encampment grounds.

During the summer season, a very convenient schedule of trains is in effect on the Cornwall and Lebanon Railroad; trains connecting with practically all trains during the day with the Pennsylvania Railroad at Conewago and the Philadelphia and Reading Railway at Lebanon. These connections make it possible for passengers to reach Mt. Gretna from Philadelphia in less than three hours and from New York in about five hours.
